PROF. DEVI SRIDHAR

PhD, Professor of Global Public Health, University of Edinburgh Medical School

Dr. Sridhar is Professor and Chair of Global Public Health at the University of Edinburgh and regularly advises governments and international agencies on health challenges. She holds a doctoral degree from Oxford University as a Rhodes Scholar and was an honors medical student at the University of Miami. Dr. Sridhar appears regularly on BBC and Channel 4 News and has a weekly health column in The Guardian.

Her first popular book, Preventable, was a BBC Radio 4 Book of the Week and a Sunday Times bestseller, and her latest book, How Not to Die (Too Soon) was chosen by the Financial Times as one of the best books of 2025.

Alongside her academic work, Dr. Sridhar has served on the board of Save the Children UK, the World Economic Forum Council on the Health Industry, and co-chaired the Harvard/LSHTM Independent Panel on the Global Response to Ebola. Combining academic rigor with practical policy insight, she offers audiences a compelling perspective on global health, leadership, and the challenges shaping the future of public health.
